Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Ben Israel, or From Under the Curse: A Jewish Play, in Five Acts To The Jews Of America: Our theme and race, my Hebrew brethren, constitute the grandest of the world, and it is time that we Gentiles do you justice, for the nations owe to your people the crown of civilizations. To Egypt and Greece the world is certainly indebted, but to the Hebrew people, and the divine splendor of their subject, it owes at once the substantial basis of our present civilization and the very soul that breathes in it. Indeed, the sacred literature and exalted examples of your forefathers have very much formed the characters of modern nations. I am inclined to believe that they are indebted more to the Hebrews for their present types, than to their race origins, which give to them, in our own time, little more than their variations from each other, and the character ardor or coldness of physical temperament. The Temples of their civilization are yours. The temples of their own race-patriarchs were demolished before their...
